DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Embodiment II - Figure 7 in Paper No. 8, filed 05 March 2003 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that all embodiments are allowable and that there is no burden on the examiner. This is not found persuasive because indication that all embodiments are allowable is not a proper traversal of a restriction requirement and the applicant's representative is in not position to determine what is or is not a burden on the examiner.
2. However, upon reconsideration by the examiner, claims 1-8 and claims 15-22 are readable on Embodiment II - Figure 7.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

3. Claims 24-26 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected Embodiment, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in Paper No. 8, filed 05 March 2003.

Drawings

4. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference character "48" has been used to designate both a manifold and spacers. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
5. The drawings are objected to because:
  - a. the leader line for reference character R in figure 2 must be properly extended,

- b. the leader line for reference character 69 in figure 2 must be properly extended,
- c. the leader line for reference character 56 in figure 5 must be properly extended,
- d. the leader line for reference character SL in figure 5 must be properly extended.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claims 4 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- a. Claim 4 contains the trademark/trade name Neoprene in line 2 of claim 4. Where a trademark or trade name is used in a claim as a limitation to identify or describe a particular material or product, the claim does not comply with the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. See Ex parte Simpson, 218 USPQ 1020 (Bd. App. 1982). The claim scope is uncertain since the trademark or trade name cannot be used properly to identify any particular material or product. A trademark or trade name is used to identify a source of goods, and not the goods themselves. Thus, a trademark or trade name does not identify or describe the goods associated with the trademark or trade name. In the present case, the trademark/trade name is used to identify/describe a rubber material and, accordingly, the identification/description is indefinite.

- b. The recitation of "said distribution blade" in line 2 of claim 22 lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 1,2,5,7-10,12-17,19-23,27, and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Watts.

Watts discloses in figures 1-3 an applicator bar for applying a material to a head of a rail comprising a body 3 having a flow passageway therein, said flow passageway defining an exit 5; a dam sealed by an elastomeric member 17 and said body 3; a metal distribution blade 8; and a flexible skirt 9, enclosing an upper portion of said dam. Watts further discloses in lines 10-29, a pump and reservoir in fluid communication with said flow passageway.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watts.

Watts discloses the basic apparatus as previously cited but does not disclose said dam comprising a D-shaped seal, however, forming the body of Watts to be D-shaped so as to seal said dam is one of numerous configurations a person of ordinary skill in the art would find obvious for the purpose of sealing said dam. See Graham v. John Deere Co., 38 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 and In re Dailey, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1976).

12. Claims 4,11, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watts in view of Huck (US Patent No. 2,489,182).

Regarding claims 4 and 11, Watts discloses the basic apparatus as previously cited but does not disclose said skirt made from an elastomeric material. However, Huck teaches in figure 1 and lines 23-64 of column 3, a railway track lubricating device comprising a flexible skirt member B made from an elastomeric material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus of Watts in view of the teachings of Huck to include a skirt made from an elastomeric material to provide a skirt having increased resiliency.

Regarding claim 18, Watts discloses the basic apparatus as previously cited but does not disclose said skirt position over a portion of the upper surface of said rail. However, Huck in figure 1, teaches a railway track lubricating device comprising a flexible skirt position over a portion of the upper surface of a rail. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus of Watts in view of the teachings of Huck to position said skirt over a portion of the upper surface of a rail so as to provide an increased amount of lubrication material to an upper surface of said rail.

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following patent documents are cited to further show the state of the art regarding rail lubricating systems:

US Patent No. 5,641,037 to Wise et al.

US Patent No. 2,887,179 to Steele et al.

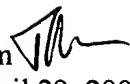

US Patent No. 1,889,313 to Graham

PCT Patent Publication WO 88/10204
